CHAPTER 3

SCHOOL INSTRUCTIONAL MEDIA PROGRAMS

Certified Media Professionals, 1980-81

For years, the number of persons reported to the Department of Public Instruction who were certified as school librarians, audiovisual coordinators, and audiovisual directors showed an increase each year. The 1980-81 positions reported by district administrators showed a decline in all areas.

In 1980-81, and in 1979-80, positions reflecting building-level staff were reported to the Department of Public Instruction by school administrators as follows:

	1980-81	1979-80
School Librarians	1306	1320
Audiovisual Coordinators	308	324
Audiovisual Directors	113	120

Common School Fund

The Common School Fund, a constitutionally established program, provides revenue to schools annually for the purchase of library books and audiovisual materials. The allotments are based on the number of children within the district boundaries.

In 1981, the allotment was $4.04 per child (between the ages of four and twenty), an increase of nearly $1 per child from the previous year.

Media Expenditures, 1977-1980

Comparison of average media expenditures per pupil during the period 1977-1980 is as follows:

Account No. & Name		1977-78	1978-79	1979-80
1181	AV Materials	$ 5.97	$ 6.20	$ 6.33
1182	Library Books	5.96	6.41	6.54
1183	Newspapers	.21	.24	.26
1184	Magazines	1.26	1.48	1.49
1185	Realia	.04	.07	.06
1189	Other Library Expenditures	.74	.79	.90
	TOTALS	$14.18	$15.19	$15.58

State Superintendent's Mailing on Materials Selection and Censorship

In February, 1981, a packet of materials was distributed to Wisconsin district administrators relating to material selection. The mailing and its contents were planned and distributed by the Bureau of Instructional Media Programs. Contents included an annotated bibliography on materials regarding selection and censorship of IMC and textbook materials, DPI publication entitled Suggestions for Dealing with Censorship of Media Center Materials in Schools: A Wisconsin Plan, and a report on the middle/junior high school survey of censorship attempts of IMC materials, and six other enclosures. Portions of this mailing were also distributed to district media directors and middle/junior high school media specialists.

Bureau Advisory Committee

The concept of a bureau advisory committee was initiated in 1978-79 by the Bureau of Instructional Media Programs. The committee, which consists of persons designated as district media directors, is designed:

- to provide the district media director direct access to the bureau
- to elicit more direct input relative to needs which the bureau should address
- to provide feedback to the bureau on its activities, publications, surveys, etc.

The members of the bureau's advisory committee for 1980-82 are as follows:

Elaine Anderson, Beaver Dam Public Schools (also committee chairperson, 1980-81)
Carolyn Servais, Little Chute Public Schools (also committee chairperson, 1981-82)
Anthony Burant, Park Falls Public Schools
Betty Dahl, Altoona Public Schools
Terri Iverson, Dodgeville Public Schools
Robert Strack, Stevens Point Public Schools
Henry Wellner, Kenosha Public Schools

Surveys of Media Programs

The Bureau of Instructional Media Programs conducted two major surveys in 198 .d 1981. One of these surveys related to censorship attempts of mate in school media centers. The survey of censorship attempts was divided into three parts: Middle/Junior High Schools, Elementary Schools, Senior High Schools. Only the first of these on middle/junior high schools has been completed.

Highlights of results are included elsewhere in this chapter. Results of the surveys of elementary and senior high school censorship attempts will be included in next year's Library Service Record.

The second major survey conducted by the Bureau of Instructional Media Programs focused on district media programs. While the survey instrument has been distributed and returns are in the bureau office, the analysis is incomplete and cannot, therefore, be reported at this time. Results of this survey will be included in next year's Library Service Record.

The most recent status report of building-level media centers was conducted in 1978. Results of findings were reported in the 1978 Library Service Record.

State Superintendent's Conference for District Media Directors

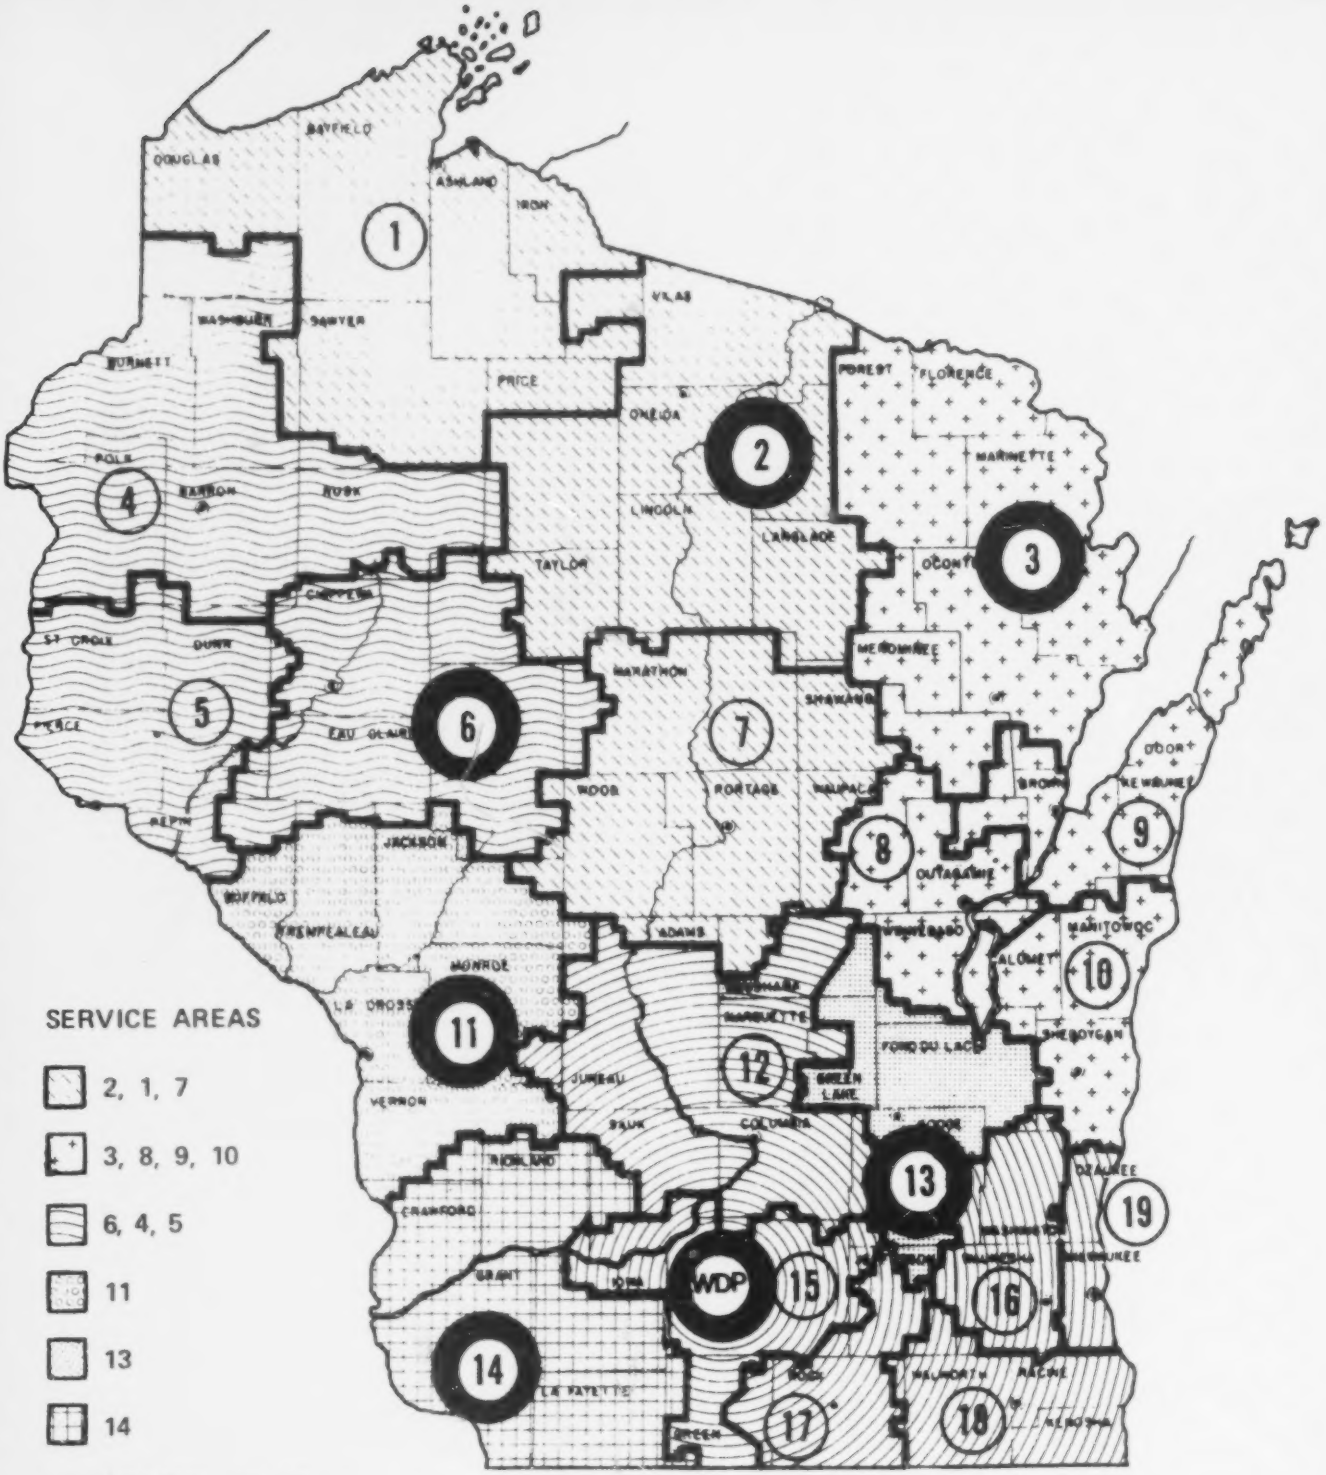
In 1979 and in 1980, a one-day State Superintendent's Conference for District Media Directors was planned and carried out by the Bureau of Instructional Media Programs. Designed to focus on the person(s) designated to provide coordination in instructional media programs for school districts, the conference addressed the needs of this important group as no other conference in the state does. Persons in attendance at the 1980 conference included 350 individuals representing almost half of Wisconsin's districts, as well as university faculty, Cooperative Education Service Agency (CESA) staff, and others.

In 1980, conference evaluations showed that 91 percent of the participants returning the evaluation rated the conference "very good/excellent."

Wisconsin Dissemination Project (WDP)

School administrators budgeting for declining enrollments, elementary teachers looking for health education activities, special education directors looking for mainstreaming guidelines--these are all people who can find help from the WDP (Wisconsin Dissemination Project). Since its beginning in 1978, WDP has been handling these kinds of requests, primarily from Wisconsin educators. Most of these requests are answered with an information package designed specifically for the user.

The Wisconsin Dissemination Project is designed to improve the delivery of information, materials, and assistance to Wisconsin teachers and administrators. On February 1, 1981, WDP began the fourth year of a five-year grant from the National Institute of Education to develop a statewide dissemination network. Seven regional centers were established from 1978-81 to serve as retrieval and assistance centers for WDP. They are located at CESAs 2, 3, 5, 11, 13 and 14 and the WDP office at DPI. By 1983, every school will be clustered with one of the six CESA retrieval centers or the WDP office.



WDP/CESA RETRIEVAL CENTERS

1981-82

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

In response to requests received from educators, CESA and WDP staff search the nearly 400,000 documents and journal articles in the Educational Resource Information Center (ERIC) files. The searches use an on-line retrieval system from the Madison Academic Computing Center. If ERIC is not the best source of information, the CESA retrieval centers refer requests to the WDP office in Madison. WDP staff can search about 20 additional national data bases relevant to topics in education. These national data bases have helped to supplement ERIC.

WDP staff began to develop a state data base called Wisconsin Information Resources for Educators (WIRE) in 1979 in response to the many requests which relate to programs, services, and materials in Wisconsin schools.

WIRE is a computer-retrievable file patterned after ERIC and searched by WDP regional center staff using the same program they use to search ERIC.

WDP is seeking to strengthen the ties between this kind of specialized information service and other library services. For example, a user who has received journal article abstracts as part of his/her package is encouraged to use the school and/or public libraries to receive complete articles. Those who have received ERIC document abstracts are told the location of the nearest ERIC microfiche collection or assisted in borrowing microfiche from the DPI Library. WDP local contact people are trained to recognize and redirect requests which are better handled by traditional library resources. As the five-year project progresses, WDP will become a statewide information network providing another kind of link between the library and education communities.

Certification

The proposal for revision in the certification of school librarians and audiovisual personnel received the endorsement of professional associations, advisory committees, and State Superintendent Barbara Thompson; but it stalled when it reached the State Assembly Education Committee. Now the new superintendent, Herbert Grover, will need to study the proposal, make his own recommendation, and send it back to the Legislature with whatever amendments are appropriate. Legislative action is expected by late fall.

The proposal replaces the four school librarian and audiovisual licenses with four Instructional Media and Instructional Technology licenses. The new series of licenses would become effective in 1984 or 1985, and would be renewable every five years.

Interlibrary Cooperation Policy

As the 1979-80 school year began, superintendnet Thompson announced a department policy statement regarding the sharing of resources by public schools in Wisconsin.

Presented in a brief publication titled "Instructional Media Programs in the State Library Network" (Bulletin No. 0394), the statement read:

> ". . .Therefore, the Department strongly supports and encourages the development of effective formal and informal arrangements through which the resources in instructional media programs are shared among all schools within a district, between districts, and with public, academic and special libraries. The Department also supports participation in resource sharing activities to obtain materials needed by students and teachers."

Reading and the IMC Program

The Bureau of Instructional Media Programs, in cooperation with, and with funding from, the Division for Instructional Services, worked with the UW-Madison Instructional Media Distribution Center to create a series of three slide-tape programs designed to encourage a cooperative effort between teachers of reading and instructional media personnel. Designed to be used as an in-service program, this slide-tape series provides examples of effective cooperative efforts being implemented in schools in Wisconsin to promote reading through the IMC program. Users of this series are encouraged to stop the presentation after each segment and discuss the ideas and concepts presented.

Microcomputers in Wisconsin Schools

The 1980-81 school year saw a tremendous growth in the use of microcomputers in the schools of Wisconsin. A spring survey of the 433 districts (with 81 percent responding) found that 71 percent of the respondent districts were using microcomputers. A total of 814 microcomputers were reported in use and another 339 were on order for the 1981-82 school year. Of the types of microcomputers reported, 45.7 percent were Apple and Bell & Howell, 39.9 percent were TRS 80, 6 percent were Commodore PET, 1 percent were Atari, and 7.2 percent were other brands. Of the microcomputers on request, 71 percent were Apple and Bell & Howell, 16.8 percent were TRS 80, 6.7 percent were Commodore PET, 4.4 percent were Atari, and .8 percent were other brands.

Of the 350 districts responding to the survey, 276 (or 78.8 percent) indicated their staff had some or no knowledge of microcomputers and thus desired in-service assistance. The type of assistance desired by districts included such areas as funding, curriculum development, courseware development, courseware acquisition, and in-service training for their teachers.

The Department of Public Instruction, in cooperation with the EPIE (Educational Products Information Exchange) Institute, UW-Oshkosh, and the Madison Public Schools conducted two workshops on the evaluation of microcomputer software in August, 1981. Over fifty participants were trained in the procedures of effective software evaluation during the two-day workshops held in Madison and Oshkosh.

In addition, members of the DPI Computers in the Schools Committee met with selected school personnel at four sites in Wisconsin and gathered information on what the school would like the DPI to provide. This committee will be developing a DPI policy on computers and will develop a definition of computer literacy for schools to use if they so desire. Other activities of this committee will be to look at state-wide adoption of the Minnesota Educational Computer Consortium materials and development of materials to assist schools in the selection of microcomputer hardware and software.

Regional Instructional Media Center Study

During the 1980-81 school year, a DPI-sponsored committee of school personnel studied the need for, and development of regional media centers in Wisconsin. The committee visited regional centers in Iowa and Michigan, surveyed school personnel, studied various reports, and visited several sites in Wisconsin that provided media services to students in multiple districts or a large district.

The committee is in the process of finalizing its report and will submit it, after review by outside readers, to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction during the fall of 1981.

A Report of a Survey of Censorship Attempts of IMC Materials in Wisconsin's Public Middle/Junior High Schools. Survey Conducted: May, 1980

Introduction: In May, 1980, the Bureau of Instructional Media Programs, Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, conducted an anonymous survey of professional media specialists in middle/junior high school libraries or IMCs of attempts to censor library or IMC materials. The period covered in the survey was 1978-79 and 1979-80. The information was gathered to:

a. determine the extent of recent censorship attempts in school libraries or IMCs
b. develop plans for Bureau of Instructional Media Programs designed to assist schools and school librarians/media specialists in the evaluation, selection, and reconsideration of media center materials

This survey report is Part I of a three-part survey. Parts II and III will report statistics gathered from elementary and high schools, respectively. Current status surveys will be conducted in a representative sample of elementary school IMCs in 1981, and in all high schools in Wisconsin shortly thereafter.

Although 308 public schools in Wisconsin are designated as junior high or middle schools, only 229 surveys were distributed. This is because many schools share library or IMC facilities in the same building with an elementary or senior high school. DPI records were able to identify 229 schools with separate library/IMC programs at the middle/junior high school level. This also means that K-8, K-12, or 7-12 schools were not included.

Of the 229 surveys sent, 212 or 93 percent were completed and returned. Two hundred and four (204) or 89 percent were found to be sufficiently complete for inclusion.

For purposes of the survey, the term "censorship attempts" refers to attempts of parents or other citizens to abridge the rights of other parents, teachers, or children in having access to information which is part of the educational program. The results of this survey follow.

11) In the selection of audiovisual materials, what percentage of materials were teachers actively involved in selecting?

0 - 25% = 10%
26 - 50% = 7%
51 - 75% = 18%
76 - 100% = 64%

12) Primary Sources for selection of IMC materials - major responses only. (Respondents were asked to check their first three choices)

1st choice 68% = professional selection tools
9% = teacher recommendations
8% = commercial catalogs
3% = first hand examination

2nd choice 39% = teacher recommendations
20% = first hand examination
18% = commercial catalogs
9% = professional selection tools

* Where totals can normally be expected to equal 100%, they may not always do so because of rounding.

12) continued

3rd choice 29% = teacher recommendations
28% = first hand examination
24% = commercial catalogs
17% = student recommendations
13% = professional selection tools
9% = jobbers

Major sources summarized:
Professional selection tools, teacher recommendations, first-hand examination, commercial catalogs

13) Is there a materials selection policy approved by the school board?

Yes = 84%
No = 14%
No answer = 2%

14) Does the policy contain provision and procedures for the review of challenged materials?

Yes = 81%
No = 6%
No answer = 13%

The percentage of total schools reporting having or not having selection policies and reconsideration policies compared to those having censorship attempts was about the same.

15) When was the materials selection policy approved?

Within last two years = 23%
3 - 5 years ago = 40%
6 - 10 years ago = 10%
11 or more years = 3% don't know = 25%

16) Is there a provision for periodic review of the policy?

Yes = 35%
No = 48%
No answer = 17%

17) Have there been any censorship attempts of IMC materials occuring in your school?

1978-79	1979-80
Yes = 16% (33 schools)	Yes = 14% (28 schools)
No = 80%	No = 81%
No answer = 4%	No answer = 5%

18) Of those answering "no" censorship attempts, 21% felt that they were under pressure to restrict or curb selections beyond constraints dictated by budget or curriculum. It was felt that the source of the pressure primarily came from parents, administrators, and teachers, respectively.

19) Based on 61 respondents who indicated censorship attempts, 50% reported 1 attempt, 26% reported 2 attempts, 16% reported 3 attempts, 7% reported 4 attempts and 2% reported 5 attempts.

a. According to district type, schools which indicated that they were rural had more censorship attempts in 1978-79. Of 33 censorship attempts reported in 1978-79,

10 were urban (30% compared to 40% in the entire survey indicating that they were urban)

5 were suburban (15% compared to 30.9% for entire survey)

17 were rural (52% compared to 30.9% for entire survey)

1 - no response

b. According to district type, schools which indicated that they were urban or rural had more censorship attempts in 1979-80. Of 28 censorship attempts reported in 1979-80,

11 were urban (39% compared to 24% for entire survey)

5 were suburban (18% compared to 24% for entire survey)

10 were rural (36% compared to 30.9 for entire survey

2 - no response

20) Type of material questioned:

Books - 95% of those reporting censorship attempts
Magazines - 21% of those reporting censorship attempts
Newspapers - 2% of those reporting censorship attempts
Other AV materials - 3 of those reporting censorship attempts

21) Factors precipitating censorship attempts varied.

22) Primary reasons given for censorship attempts (in order of frequency):

sexuality profanity morality; immaturity of users obscenity nudity
human reproduction drugs; witchcraft violence

23) It was reported that objections came overwhelmingly from parents; others came from administrators and teachers.

24) 30% of those experiencing censorship problems indicated that written procedures were not followed at all; 30% indicated that they were followed in full.

Comment: The question of whether a recommendation policy was followed fully or not appeared to be somewhat related to who questioned the material. The survey's results show an obvious need for consistency in the utilization of the reconsideration policy regardless of whether the person requesting reconsideration is a parent, school board member, teacher, or administrator.

25) 75% of those experiencing censorship attempts did not seek assistance outside the district. The Cooperative Children's Book Center was the source named in all but one case in which the American Library Association (ALA) was listed.

26) Of those 61 schools experiencing censorship attempts:

a) 31% indicated that materials were being altered to remove or conceal objectionable parts

b) 48% indicated that there was restricted shelving of certain materials

c) 15% indicated deletions of certain materials from purchase orders by persons in an administrative capacity regardless of recommendations or who requested materials.

The practices cited were initiated by the librarian/media specialist in 64% of the cases, and by the principal in 20% of the cases. Other initiators varied.

A Close Look at One Censorship Attempt in Those Schools Reporting Censorship

27) 85.5% indicated that the censorship attempt did not receive publicity in the community.

28) In terms of final disposition of the material

38% remained on open shelves as before 28% were removed
15% were placed in another school
12% placed on restricted shelving
8% were edited

In 23 cases where material was retained, 10 respondents indicated that the reconsideration policy was followed "not at all" or "minimally", while 12 respondents indicated that policy was followed "fully" or "quite a bit".

In the 17 cases where materials were removed completely, 11 librarian/media specialists reported procedures followed either "not at all" or minimally".

In the 7 cases where material was placed on restricted shelving, survey respondents indicated that 4 reported that the reconsideration policy was not followed at all, while 2 reported that it was followed fully. One respondent checked not applicable.

29) 36% of the librarians/media specialists felt the request for reconsideration was justified

64% felt the request was unjustified

30) 83% said the incident did not result in a change in their personal selection criteria or procedures

17% said that it did change criteria or procedures

31) 91% said the incident did not bring about a change in the school or district's selection policy or procedures

9% said that the incident did bring about a change in the school or district's selection policy or procedure

32) When asked, "Do you feel censorship attempts will increase in the 1980s in your district?" (Answered only by those experiencing censorship attempts.)

20% reported "yes"
18% reported "no"
23% reported "don't know"
39% reported "will remain the same"

Conclusion: Among findings of the survey, it was found that while the great majority of districts have materials selection policies, reconsideration policies were not always followed consistently when censorship attempts occurred. Districts were encouraged to have materials selection policies and to follow them consistently, and to involve teachers actively in the selection of both print and audiovisual materials in the IMC.

System Development

System growth continued in 1980 with the addition of two counties. Columbia County joined the Southcentral Library System; and Jefferson County, including the City of Whitewater, joined the Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System. As of January 1, 1981, two new systems, the Kenosha County Library System and the Waukesha County Library System, began operations. Public library systems currently cover 68 of Wisconsin's 72 counties and provide service to 93.4% of the state's population.

After careful study, the Wisconsin Library Law, Chapter 43 of Wisconsin Statutes, was revised. Beginning with the FY81 state aids appropriation, the method for determining the funding to be made available to systems was changed. Current statutes require that an amount equal to 11.25% of expenditures in system areas, from local and county sources for public library service in the previous year, be provided for systems. The distribution of the aids appropriation remains according to the previous statutory formula. This formula includes area, population, and expenditures for public library service components.

Statistical Summary

In 1981 there were 353 public libraries and 17 public library systems operating in Wisconsin. Of all public libraries, 345, all but 25, were system members. The distribution of all libraries according to size of home community is as follows:

Distribution of Public Libraries
by Home Community Size--1981

Community Population	Number of Libraries	Percent
Under 2,000	169	47.9%
2,001- 4,000	67	19.0%
4,001- 6,000	27	7.6%
6,001- 10,000	30	8.5%
10,001- 20,000	27	7.6%
20,001- 50,000	21	6.0%
50,001-100,000	10	2.8%
Over 100,000	2	.6%
	353	100.0%

These libraries provide service to nearly 4.7 million state residents, or all but .3% of the population. Nearly 4.4 million residents were provided public library system services in 1981.

The total number of full time equivalent (FTE) staff employed by state public libraries was 2,057 (based on a 40 hour work week), not including maintenance personnel. Of this total, 490.4 FTEs had Library Science Degrees, 18.5 FTE held advanced degrees in areas other than library science, and 218.8 FTEs had Bachelor's Degrees. Of the remaining staff, 359.6 FTEs held or were eligible for some level of Wisconsin librarian certification, and 969.7 FTEs were listed as clerical and support staff.

The reported number of hours open per week indicates that public libraries have extended service hours slightly since 1978. A comparison of 1980 and 1978 hours open is presented below.

DISTRIBUTION OF PUBLIC LIBRARIES BY HOURS OPEN PER WEEK
1978 and 1980

Total Hours Open	1980 Number of Libraries	1980 Percent of Total	1978 Percent of Total
Unknown	--	--	3.2
1- 6	21	5.9	7.7
7-10	35	9.9	11.5
11-15	39	11.0	12.9
16-20	38	10.9	8.3
21-25	41	11.6	9.1
26-40	69	19.6	16.6
41-50	36	10.2	10.9
51-70	63	17.8	16.6
70 and Over	11	3.1	3.2
Total	353	100.0	100.0

This chart indicates the percentage of libraries open less than 16 hours per week has decreased while the percentage of those open from 16 to 40 hours has increased. The percentage of libraries open over 40 hours per week remains about the same.

Public library collections continued to grow, although at a slower rate, as all categories of collected data showed increases. The percentage increase of 1980 collection holdings over 1979 is shown in the following table.

PUBLIC LIBRARY COLLECTION GROWTH--
PERCENT INCREASE OF 1980 HOLDINGS OVER 1979

	1980 Percent Increase Over 1979 Holdings

Volumes Added	1.1%
Periodicals	1.2%
Slides and Filmstrips	8.3%
8mm Films	25.3%
16mm Films	9.9%
Records and Tapes	4.7%

Films, both 8mm and 16mm, showed the greatest increase. The number of 8mm films increased from 9,273 in 1979 to 11,616 in 1980. The number of 16mm films increased from 9,279 in 1979 to 10,201 in 1980. Data collected for the first time in 1980 indicate that Wisconsin public libraries held 1,542 video cassettes and no video discs.

Direct loans increased from 26.5 million in 1979 to nearly 28 million in 1980, an increase of 5.7%. This continues a trend seen in recent years of increased circulation following the no increase pattern of the mid 1970s.

Total library income topped the $50 million mark in 1980, increasing 10.9% over 1979. Over 80 percent of all income was from county and local sources. Public library income by source and percentage of total is presented below.

PUBLIC LIBRARY INCOME--1980

Corresponding to public library income growth, public library expenditures increased 11% from 1979 to 1980. Expenditures by category and percent of total are shown in the following table.
